

Campus ASEAN Short-term Overseas Study Program (2016) (Nagoya University - Royal University of Law and Economics)

1. Background and Objectives

The Graduate School of International Development (GSID), Nagoya University introduces a Re-Inventing Japan Project titled “Training a New Generation of Leaders in International Cooperation for the Development of the ASEAN Region” (Campus ASEAN in short) for the period of school year 2012 through 2016. This project, which was jointly applied by GSID, Graduate School of Law/School of Law, Graduate School of Economics/School of Economics, Center for Asian Legal Exchange (CALE) and International Cooperation Center for Agricultural Education, was adopted and supported by Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS). The main objective of this project is to foster global leaders in international cooperation who understand both aid and business, with knowledge of economy, law, politics, society and culture of the ASEAN region and Japan. For this purpose, Nagoya University has established a consortium with National University of Singapore, Chulalongkorn University (Thailand), University of the Philippines Los Baños, Gadjah Mada University (Indonesia), Royal University of Law and Economics (Cambodia), Hanoi Law University (Vietnam) and Ho Chi Minh City University of Law (Vietnam) to develop common curriculum with quality assurance and strengthen participants’ mutual understanding through short-term and long-term overseas studies.

As part of the program, GSID is going to host short-term overseas study for eight students from Royal University of Law and Economics (Hereafter, RULE) in school year 2016. Students involved in this short-term program are expected to be inspired to become a future leader in international cooperation and improve their intercultural understanding through lectures and cultural tours during their stay in Japan.
